MLR99		Soviet France	A Flock Of Rotations	1987	Soviet France is an idiosyncratic collective of anonymous postindustrialists, dronologists, and pseudo-ethnomusicologists. Since their inception in 1980, Zoviet France have developed a radical relationship with the cheap technologies of old-fashioned tape recorders, homemade acoustic instruments, primitive looping and sampling devices, and basic dub trickery. From these machines, the collective has crafted a distinctly unique vocabulary of postindustrial sonic hypnosis. Just as Zoviet France's sound was alchemic reconfigurations of inexpensive technologies, their vinyl packaging literally covered their sounds with aluminum, roofing shingles and	Fold-out cover, vinyl in protective sleeve which has top and bottom openings and prints on both sides. 12"	$ 75.00

APR15	Yoko	Ono	Now or Never	1973	"Now or Never" sums up Ono's philosophy that "Dream you dream alone is just a dream/But dream we dream together is reality." New York Times music critic Stephen Holden described this line as expressing a "Beatles-style utopianism." A Yoko Ono press release described the song as a "wistful wake-up call to a tuned-out, slacked-off America." Vietnam War historian Lee Andresen considered the song to be a protest against the war. APR51	The	Residents	The Census Taker	1985	12" with original wrapping The Census Taker (aka Husbands, Wives, Money, & Murder) was a low-budget horror film from the mid-eighties. It was The Residents' first motion picture soundtrack commission. The movie itself was not a success - it went straight to video - and The Residents weren't too impressed with it, but they were happy with their own contribution to it.	The Residents are an American art collective and art rock band best known for their avant-garde music and multimedia works. Throughout the group's existence, the individual members have ostensibly attempted to work anonymously, preferring to have attention focused on their art. Much speculation and rumor has focused on this aspect of the group. In public, they appear silent and costumed, often wearing eyeball helmets, top hats and tails—a costume now recognized	$ 75.00

R006		Various			12" Inside cover: "A Spoken Space" is a series of exhibitions during two years which set in action the combination of the telephone network, the symbolic place of the gallery and an artist whose piece was specially conceived for this program. Each exhibition or Imaginary installation was broadcast night and day for eight days by the automatic answering-device.	The goal of this program was to highlight the transition from one mode of perception to another: the transformation of a fictitious visual space into its actual verbal representation. In accordance with the fundamental idea of this project, you will find here, instead of a pressed record, the totality of the records	$ 650.00
